regularities, and had to be the first one to communicate these things to the parents of the young people concerned. I may have shrunk back from the unpleasant and difficult task, but if so it was but for a mement; I have braced up and and sympathetic way as I could devise. The situation which I have disliked the most was when such a com munication had to be made over the telephone. Telephones were never intended for the transmission of such personal messages. The one thing which I have not yet found a satisfactory way of saying to bables and go into detail as to what imake payment immediately. these intils are: that he has done this or that which is contrary to law Laure 21, 1928. and good merals, but I have not yet 10.12 descriped the courage to say that the child in increasing, Fertunately such cases are rare but they do exist. In most instances the terrelessly dull child drops out of school before he finishes high school He shows on Inclination to do manual rather than intellectual work, and his parents yield to the pressure which he applies to give up school. But there are cases where pride and arebition blind the parents' eyes, where possibly influence beeps the child in school, and finally forces him into college, for the work of which he shows neither interest nor ability. It is very hard to consider parents under such circumstances that there is not something radically wrong with college cise their son would be making more rapid adrancement.

A Syrian Rebecca Returning From the Well.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.) THE strip of Syria and the Holy Land at the eastern end of the Mediterranean sea has ever been n stage for momentous world events. There the civilizations of Egypt, Mesopotanda and Asia Minor met, their armies marching and coun-

A few miles north of Beirut, at the point where Dog river enters the sea, the foothills of the Lebanon come down to the very shore of the Mediterranean, and since soldiers and armies have always sought to travel on the level, whether they have fought that way or not, the passage of this point where sen and mountain meet was always a difficult feat.

One army after another cut its path along the towering cliffs, and when the passage of this narrow defile was thus insured, the commanders left the record of their passing. Who the first men were no one knows, for the troops of Napoleon III, in passing this point, were too lazy to turn over a new leaf; they simply inscribed their record on a limestone page from which the record of some ancient Egyptian had been crased by the hand of time.

But the first record that still stands was left by the armies of the most famous of the pharaohs, Rameses the Great, when they were on their way northward to wage war against the Kheta or Hittites.

The great Assyrian, Ashurnasirpal, teft his record here and his successors, Shalmaneser and Adadairari, did the same. Then there was a lapse of more than a century, from 812 to 705 B. C., when Sennacherlb and his son, Esarhaddon, had their names chiseled In this stone book of history.

Railways on Old Caravan Routes, If political conditions become definitely stabilized in this part of the world, it is not too much to believe that heavy trains, fired with oil from the Persian fields, will thunder along trade routes which plodding camels marked out when the world was young. Already, one may dine in Cairo and have luncheon the following day in Jerusalem. The step to Aleppo, Mosul, and Bagdad is short and all but 300 miles of the line is now open to traffic. However popular the route through central Europe along the famous Berlin-to-Bagdad line becomes, the safety of the British empire demands that the rallroad which follows the old line of communication between the valley of the Nile and the valleys of the Euphrates and the Tigris shall be kept in a state of perfection. There will be no Amanus or Taurus tunnels on this trail of the modern caravan, and an absence of heavy grades throughout a large part of the Jordan valley, has furnished a of the right of way will make it possible for the hoped-for Calco-to-Calcutta express to beat the fastest sea route by several days.

The Hauran, south of Damascus, has long been a granury and the massive ruins of Banibek dominate a plain whose fertility was once suf-ficient to make possible lavists local expenditures and at the same time the film of the eye reminds one of return large taxes to imperial Rome, boiling oil and the Spanish inquisition. Pepys Kept Diary for His Own Satisfaction

Pepys born, 1033. "A very worthy, industrious and curlous person." says Evelyn.

Family "pull" got him into the civil service. He proved a hard worker: quick at shorthand; regular at church; musical; lover of art-incidentally. one of the first to collect chapbooks: member of the Royal society; a most rotation, respectable man who died credited with all the virtues.

And a century later we learned that he had been-what had he not been? "Seandalously overserved with drink;" a little tyrant in the house, who blackened life wife's eye and kicked the cook; a glutton; a rascal with far too keen an eye for pretty serving maids; none too particular about bribes. Worthy person," indeed!

Who cave him away? He himself! For nine years he kept a diary. He never meant anybody to read it. Anyway, he wrote the bits his wife was not meant to see in shorthand, cipher. foreign languages or mumbo-jumbo of But why did he keep it lying about

Less Bickering With

Fifty-Fifty Marriages Work has replaced bickering in the home of the economically independent wife, according to at least one husband who calls his marriage a "aftyfifty" proposition.

Writing in the Woman's Home Companion he says that instead of destroying the home the mulatenance of marriage as a union of two economically independent persons causes the home to be even more appreciated than it was under the old idea of matrimony. Since both husband and wife are away from their home all day, it is his contention that both appreciate its comforts more when they return to it togother at night.

"It seems to me that a fifty-fifty husband's greatest reward," says this fifty-fifty husband, "Hes in being murried to a woman who, because she has found a satisfactory channel of expreasion, is a well-balanced personaller. The fifty-fifty husband is spared emotional crisis. I trace this to the fact that both of us are workers in the same world and there is no chance for imagination to function overtime."

When bobles come, the writer concludes, his wife will remain with them until they reach school age and then will return to her work.

The importance of properly selecting the location of a cable is shown by the fact, cited often in this relation, that the military and paval reserves were called out in Australia ence, when the simultaneous interruption of two cables cut off communication with the rest of the world for 10 days and gave rise to the fear that war had broken out in Europe.

Gas Once a Curiosity

When the first gas lights were introduced in Baltimere, in 1816, they were placed on exhibit in the museum there and crowds pall admission to sen them. Newspaper accounts described them as marrelous "lights without cit, tallow, wick or smoke." The exhibit proved to successful that a gas company was formed the next year, and the streets of the city were soon lighted by the lamps. This was one of the first commercial installations in the United States.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Pyreneean Farms Laid Out on Small Scale

In the little pocket-like valleys of the Pyrenees the soil is black and rich, though it has been in use for many centuries. The farmers know the value of their land and they cherish every foot of it. They keep it bullt up by constant fertilizing, mulching, composting, cultivation and crop

But what great odds they have to labor against! Our American farmers would hardly have such farms as a gift. Here we come to a little farm where a man is plowing with a roke of oxen and a very crude plow, Just as in Bible times. Again we see an ox and a cow yoked together, for this farmer can't afford a pair of oxen. There goes a man who has borrowed n plow of a neighbor, and it is so light that he is carrying it on his, shoulder.

As we view the slopes from some beight, the country tooks like a piece of patchwork. The farms in the big yalleys of course are much better than the fill farms. Cow paths and sheep paths make a network against the velvety gray green of the pastures. Sheepfolds built of ralls, and small barns of stone, are found on the summits, to furnish the sheep protection at night or in bad weather. Some of the shepherds carry a blue umbrella strapped to their back in case it storida, deservativo

Women and children are helplog to bring in the hay. Often it is done up in canvas so it can be loaded on the back of a donkey. The fields are inclosed by walls of slone or fences made of saplings or twisted twigs.— Pathfinder Magazine.

While the Pageant Committee ex prets, and is making provision for a sale each night at the field box office, in justice to those who might defer their orders and be disappointed in their choice of seats, it wishes to make this announcement clear. The pageant is by no means a local affair. It is for all New England.

Children of the State of Maine will in all likelihood he the first to see the Pagrant. An afternoon dress rehearsal on June 29, to which children accompanied by school teachers us at-tendants will be admitted, is now being planned.

A complete transportation system for this city which will handle thousands of persons travelling by automobile, by rail or on steamships, and all at a minimum of inconvenience, is being worked out here for Pageant patrons as the result of an arrangement between Pageant officials and representatives of the Beard of Trade. Night rehearsals, under a battery of 30 lights mounted on a 40-foot tower above the stands, have begun under the direction of Virginia Tanner, director of the Pageant, and Monroe Pevcar, of Boston, celebrated lighting expert. More than 75,000 candlepower is projected by these lights upon the actors in the tast of 1,000 as they move in and out of the woods in the scenes and episodes of the big drams. The lights are shifted, increased, shaded or cut off entirely as the action of the Pageant progresses, bringing out the vivid colors of the costones and creating a myriad effects of light and shadow,

Among those to whom special invitations have been sent are Covernors of all states, members of the last two legislatures, members of the Supreme Judicial Court, the Maine delegation at Washington, former Governors of Maine and the executive councils of the New England States. These guests will be present on Monday, July 7, for the dedication exercises.

A cost of living survey in Plichburg, Mass, will be made by the Massachusetts Commission on the Necessaries of Life, so that the Fitchburgh Chamber of Commerce will be able to furnish facts on living costs to prospective inquirers. The City of Boston Hotel Association

Art Treasures Found

Under Italian Cities Almost any Italian public improvement or building construction which involves excavation is likely to turn up prelicological curlocities, if not treasures. This is particularly true of anclent centers, like Rome or Nacies, where one community lives on top of what was the site of an earlier community. Beautful cases were turned up by workmen when Rome's stately Via Veneto was repaired recently.

A teamster engaged to earting away earth for a port improvement at Ancons found a collection of valuable gold colos. Heavy raths in recent months brought to light a magnificent lioman mosale at Girgentl, near Naples. The mostle was originally discovered in 1500, but was covered up "to avoid spoiling the street."

It was forgotten until the rain rerealed it as a rare and beautiful work of art. It has now been lifted and transported to the archeological mu-seum at Naples. The morale consists of a central square 7 feet 7 loches by 555 feet 10 loches, decorated with geometrical designs, rosettes, stars and vividiy tinted yellows, reds and blues, The mossic weighs four tons and meas utes 200 square feet good morning, motor"

GOOD morning. Boss. Say, talking about horrible examples, you ought to look over that car next door. He was just coughing the sad tale across the hedge. Seems that his boss is a bargain hunter-drives all over town looking for cheap hobo gas. Whenever he sees a pump with a cut price, he fills the tank. Buys his oil at the same places. If ever a motor had the T. B. that poor car has it. He's so choked up he can hardly inhale his gas. His bearings are so worn and loose, it sounds like a milk wagon going over cobbles even when he's idling. Says his cylinders are in terrible shape. When he was new a year ago, he did eighteen to the gallon and only gets about seven now. Ain't it a pity, Hoss? There ought to be a law against abusing motors."

ANY CAR OWNER CAN DO AS WELL-AND MANY DO

YUR own big automotive fleet is fueled with Socony Motor Gasoline and oiled with Socony Motor Oil exclusively.

Some of these hardworking trucks and cars have gone 90,000 and 100,000 miles without needing overhauling.

Any car owner who standard-. izes on Socony products can do as well—and many do.

> Socony Special will silence that knock

If you have a new car with a high compression engine or an old car with carbon in the cylinders, try Socony Special—a particularly creamy cut of the world's best anti-knock gasoline. It gives you better pick-up, more power on hills, and a lot of extra comfort. It's equally good in cold and warm weather.

She went sedately to her boarding place, bathed and put on a white dress with here and there a dash of yellow that exactly matched her close cropped curls. She went down to the porch where sat her boarding house

With her was ida's father!

"What do you mean by sending my girl home?" He rose, ruging, "Do you realize that I am president of the school hoard and that if you begin any high-handed moves around here you are likely to find yourself somewhere else? I want Ida to have an eduention and she is going to school to morrow. She is not to be coerced and humiliated before the rest of the pupils. See?"

"If she comes back, she must remain in and recite her lesson as I told her. I am in absolute control of the school at present," Ida moved undisturbed to the table, cut three pleces of cake and sat down to eat her share.

Mr. Loland's upper lip twitched a little at the corner. Ida would have known he had surrendered. "Little thoroughbred," he thought to himself, "and the gold of her hair and dress looks like moonlight." He enloyed his cake, too. The wife he had lost made dainty things like that for him, but Chioe the dusky cook, Mo. her husband, and Ida cared very little for fragile things. Materialistic is the word Mr. Lotand would have applied to them had he known it

"flow did your inst crop of alfalfa come out?" Inquired the boarding house keeper tactfully,

"Fine. The best yet, And what do you think we found? The big goose, Melba, stole her nest and there she was with twelve goslings this time of year. Just like a goose."

"I never saw goslings," exclaimed Alberta, but I love little chickens, ducklings and turkeys. There is a per store a few blocks from where I live and it is a wonder they do not charge me for looking into their windows."

"You could have these goslings if you wanted to bother with them," sald Mr. Lohand. "You could keep them in Biddy's pen," said the landlady. So Allerta I wame the proud and enamored por or of twelve little gosilings the very next day when Ide also nonchalantly came back to school, stayed in and recited her lesson, Not without a home battle, however Her father had raged ut her, too, and threatened not to give her the car he promised her. In her beart she wanted to go back. School, manual training, and a certain boy there of her own age made life at home seem tame. Then, too, she had a secret admiration for Alberta, who could manage her father better than she could, after a lifetime of experience. So Alberta knew she was indeed in absolute control of her school when she closed the door on Friday of the second week. This proved to be true and the community admitted she was the best teacher they ever had, though of course they could not afford to keep her. Some city school would be sure to see her worth and take her from them.

It might have turned out that way If it had not been for the intriguing way those twelve little goslings put out their fenthers and grew and grew. in Alberta's soul grew, too, a great longing to see other they things grow, and on Mr. Loland's ranch there were young chickens, pupples, kittens, calves and even pigs, something all the time. So is it any wonder she gave up teaching and went to the ranch to live happily ever after?

Besides, it really was quite necessary for some one to have absolute control of Mo and Chloe and Ida, who had been running wild fer so long. and who loved Alberta with their whole hearts.

Peculiar Glass That

Shuts Out Sun's Heat It is said that there is a window glass of Austrian invention whose chief peculiarity is that it provents the passage of about nine tenths of the bent of the sun's rays. It is well known that ordinary window glass allows nearly all of the hear derived from the sun to pass through, but, on the other hand, intercepts nearly all heat coming from nonluminous sources, such as a store or the bented ground, This is the reason why heat accumulates under the glass roof of a hothouse. If covered with the Austrian glass s hothouse would become most decidedly a cold house, since the heat could not get loto it. One advantage claimed for the Austrian glass is that a house whose win dows were furnished with it would remain delightfully cool in number. But in winter, perhaps, the situation would not be to agreeable. Indeed, the paner would have to be exchanged for others of ordinary glass, since otherwise no sun heat could enter the house.

Why Secret Is Valuable

One camphor tree will produce solld camphor, another, although simflar in appearance, will produce only able. The reason of this is not known except to a comparatively few persons who are keeplag it a secret. Bolanists in many parts of the world are endeavering to work it out, so far without success. Centuries ago the secret was known only to Chinese botanists and they employed it to great advantage. It was also discovered by the Japanese In 1895, when Formosa was ceded to Japan. But the rest of the world remains la ignorance.

The discovery of the camphor tree's secret would be of Immense commerclai value, and it would lead to Japan losing her present monopoly of this product

Why Lips Are Red

What we call our skin is really the outermost of several akins, a sort of shell to protect the true skin underseath. On the lips, however, this shelf is absent, to allow us to be as sensilive as possible to the foods that we lake into our mouth.

Only the thinnest of sking is found bere, and so thin indeed is it as to be actually transparent, showing the counts underneath with all lie tiny blood ressels. Mrs. A. E. K. Grover

The community was suddened to hear f the passing on of Mrs. Aleina Ellen That comes to all of us some day, Kendali Grover Wednesday forenoon, Jane 20th. She will be much missed by a wife circle of relatives and friends both in Maine and Massachusetts. The had been in rather frail health for many years but had made light of it.

tibe was the daughter of Justus Jaspor and Marcia A. (Merrill, Kendall, and was born in 1959 at their home in the town of Newry. There were six sisters and three brothers to enjoy life the others grew to man and womanbond. One by one they all passed on until only nephews and nicees are left Mrs. Grover was educated in the lown schools and Gould Academy and was a very successful teacher for many years, even after her marriage to they lived on a small farm just beyoud Hunt's Corner on the Norway road, later moving to another farm on the Valley Road below what was then known as Fernald's Mills.

The lessons her pupils learned were not to be forgotten easily, and she cared for them all like a mother, binding their huris, their ills and childhood troubles and teaching them many a lesson in manners and good citizenship. In fact she was one of those valiant old fashioned teachers who are fast be coming but a memory of the past when tenchers taught school for the love of it, not for the fun of it as many dol nowadays.

After she gave up teaching, they sold their farm and purchased the place now owned by A. A. Bruce at Albany Town House, Four Corners, where they conducted a country store for a numher of years. Ill health of both Mr and Mrs. Grover caused them to sell and they purchased a home in Norway village. While living in Albany, Mrs. Grover became a member of Round Mountain Grange where she served as Lecturer and in other wask proved ber worth as a true Patron of Hesbandry.

After living in Norway for a few years they moved to South Bethel, where Mr. Grover passed away in Octoher 1919, after a long and painful illness, faithfully eared for by his wife. After his death she sold the place and spent some time with relatives and friends in Massachusetts. After recovering her vitality she returned to Maine and for some time was housekeeper for Miss Libby, the photographer of Norway, and her aged father. While there she had her membership transferred to Norway Grange where she served as Lecturer for some time. She was intensely interested in the work of the order and was a member of Oxford Pomona, the Maine State and the National Grange. She was a well read woman who kept abreast of
